General provisions

If there is a cooperation agreement in effect between a company and the Bank concerning account keeping for employees, the employees of the company (including borrowed staff, as well as persons working for the company in other legal arrangements) are entitled to use the Relationship Employee Package. The Relationship Employee Package may be used for one bank account.

The Employee shall certify his/her employment or other legal relationship with the company with an employment certificate or a company ID card.

I. Relationship Account

Minimum monthly incoming payments contractually required for eligibility to the products and services regulated in this chapter: an amount at least equalling 80% of the gross monthly minimum wage from time to time in effect (rounded upwards to the next HUF 1,000 value) should be credited to the account to which the Relationship Package belongs, in not more than 2 instalments. Such crediting requirement may not be fulfilled with cash deposits, or transfers within the Bank from a retail account or between the customer's own accounts.

If the monthly crediting requirement is unfulfilled in three consecutive months, after a notice to the customer the account will be switched to the Everyday 2.0 account package, or if the Everyday 2.0 account package is no longer available at the Bank, to the account package named as its successor that is closest to the terminated service, without the fee due for switching between account packages being charged.
